

Biography – Hillary Thatcher

Hillary leads the Canada Infrastructure Banks (CIB) relationships with First Nation, Métis, and Inuit communities across Canada. She is part of the CIB's team that provides advice and potential investments that are consistent with the CIB's focus on new infrastructure in priority sectors – green, transit, trade and transportation and broadband.

Hillary joined the CIB in March 2020 after serving as the Director General of Innovation and Services at Indigenous Services Canada. Previously, Hillary spent 15 years with the Ontario Public Service in several senior roles across Indigenous Affairs, Energy and Infrastructure and Natural Resources. With significant experience in Indigenous relations, public policy and program delivery, Hillary has a proven track record of building linkages among government, industry and Indigenous interests. Hillary is Métis and has been an active member of the urban Indigenous community of Toronto through her volunteer roles at the Native Canadian Centre of Toronto, Red Sky Performance and the Downie Wenjak Fund, which is committed to developing reconciliation efforts across Canada.
